Mr. Jack Silverthorn had his left hand badly injured in the navy-yard by having a piece of iron run through it. It is a painful wound.

A young white man was sent to the county jail last night by Justice Peed for thirty days for drunkenness and disorderly conduct.

Two drunks and disorderlies and one plain drunk fell into the hands of the police last night.

Senator Harry L. Maynard, who was one of the party of gentlemen who went to Cuba on pleasure, returned home yesterday. He speaks in the highest terms of the courtesies shown him.

The grand stand at the baseball park is finished and about half of the fencing around the park is up. The grounds were rolled yesterday and the earth packs very nicely indeed. This week will find everything there in apple pie order.

THE CITY POLICE COURT.

In this court yesterday there were two drunks and two cases of assault and battery, which were disposed of by "Squire Baird" as follows:

The two men, who looked upon the wine when it was red, and lingered a little long at the bowl, were looked upon with sympathy, and the small amount of $1 and costs ($2.25 in all) was imposed upon them.

D. J. M. Slade was charged with assaulting Thomas Reagan. The case was fully made out, and Reagan was fined $10.

Charles Thomas, colored, and Joe Watson, also colored, had a slight misunderstanding, which resulted in Thomas being arrested for assault and battery. The case was continued until Monday.

PORTSMOUTH IS IN THE LEAD

With What is Destined to be a Marvelous Street Fair.

ANIMALS TO-MORROW

Those Who Want to See Portsmouth Grow

Can Ascertain How They Can Help by Reading This Article—Merchants and Manufacturers Becoming Greatly Interested, While the People are Anxious to Have the Fair Begin.

The essential and necessary feature for the Carnival to be held by Portsmouth Lodge of Elks is the Industrial street, or the space set apart for the booths and displays by the merchants, manufacturers and business people generally. We can assure the public that the merchants are enthusiastically imbued with the idea of making adequate displays and exhibits. A great deal of outside communication from food exhibitors and manufacturers have been received, who want information regarding the line of the Carnival, the amount of space that they can have and the cost of the same. Each merchant will fit up his own booth and decorate it according to his own ideas, thereby giving him an opportunity to display his wares in such a manner as to attract the particular class of people that he desired to cater to. The booths and displays will be arranged on either side of Industrial street, illuminated with arc and incandescent lights, profusely decorated with flags of all nations, bunting of attractive colors and designs. The cost of making these exhibits will be decided on later by our Lodge of Elks.

It has been definitely settled, however, to sell the space by the foot, so much a running foot, facing the street front of the industrial portion. We see no reason why our own merchants, and even those from cities and surrounding States, would not take advantage of this most excellent opportunity to display their wares and attract customers in attendance. The thousands who will be in the city at the end of the Industrial street there will be located that one particular feature without which a Carnival would be no carnival at all. "The Mighty Midway," as the bills describe it, is a colossal conglomeration of stupendous aggregation, especially of edifying eques-trianism, where the wild howl of the derisives and the weird beat of the tom-tom, together with the strains of the horns of the dusky sons of the desert, will be borne across the breeze. Here will be the follower of Mahomet turn his face toward the east at the setting of the sun and beseech the blessing of Allah upon his people. Here the snake eater will bite the heads from the deadly rattler, and cause the Texas centipede to shiver with fear. The wild trumpeting of the elephants, together with the braying of Balaam's famous animal, will break the soft Italian stillness of the night.

The fair will be held, and it will be a magnificent success. The animals, such as elephants, camels, donkeys, elk and den of lions, to be used in the Elks' Street Fair, are expected to arrive here Monday or Tuesday, having been shipped from Kansas City on the 14th. Quarters for them will be so located that the public can have an opportunity to view them.

YE DEESTRICK SKULE.

"Ye Old Fashioned Deestrick Skule" will be given for the benefit of Martha Washington Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., Tuesday, March 27th. You ought to see the costumes, old fashioned dresses of fifty years ago, Grover Cleveland and a number of others go to O'Phlynn and a number of others go to the "Deestrick Skule." The Seaboard Air Line Orchestra will furnish music. Cornet Solo (Selected)—B. C. McShee, Jr.

Xylophone Solo—David McArthur.

Two first-class comedians will furnish a short entertainment at the close of "skule."

WALTER COTTON DIES IN AGONY

Lynched by an Infuriated Mob at Emporia, Virginia.

SAW-FILER O'GRADY TOO

When the News of Cotton's Death Reached Portsmouth Expressions of Many Kind

Kind Were Made—Many Rejoiced, While Others Deplored the Fact that He Could Not End His Life on the Gallows in This City.

The office of the Virginian-Pilot in Portsmouth was a popular place yesterday all day, inquiries continually being made through 'phones and personal calls of the latest developments in the condition of affairs, in which our citizens were so much interested, because of the fact that Walter Cotton, the condemned murderer of one of our well-known citizens, Mr. Chas. Wyatt, was the centre of attraction in what proved to be a horrible tragedy, "but none the less deserved from a standpoint of justice," as asserted by hundreds of our best citizens yesterday.

There was nothing of a very exciting character in the early forenoon, and as time wore on and the announcement was made that the troops had been withdrawn from Emporia, a feeling of certainty pervaded the population that Cotton would in due time reach this city to expiate his cold-blooded crime on the gallows. This was not to be, however, as subsequent developments proved, for generally had that bulletin been posted when the information came that Cotton had been lynched.

Again excitement became intense, and knowledge of how he died, by what means and every conceivable connection with the lynching was eagerly sought by the people.

SHERIFF SMITH'S INQUIRY.

About an hour before the lynching actually took place Sheriff Smith sent the following telegram to Sheriff Lee, of Emporia county:

"Portsmouth, Va., March 24, 1900. "Sheriff S. W. Lee, Emporia, Va.: "It is rumored here that Cotton had been lynched. If true wire me immediately."

"WILLIAMSON SMITH, "City Sergeant City of Portsmouth."

To this Sheriff Lee did not reply, and the first intimation of the lynching came from a Virginian-Pilot representative who was upon the scene. In a few minutes after the jail had been broken into and Cotton lynched.

SHERIFF AND GOVERNOR.

As soon as the news came that the lynchings had summarily disposed of Cotton, Sheriff Smith was hurried up by a representative of the Virginian-Pilot and informed of what had just occurred at Emporia. He was met coming from the Long Distance Telephone, having just had a conversation with the Governor on the subject.

The Sheriff said: "I know it. The Governor has just told me. I am getting this knowledge from the Chief Executive of the State the following conversation occurred:

Governor. I want you to give me an order on the Sheriff of Greenville county, Mr. Lee, for Cotton."

The Governor replied as follows: "I am very sorry indeed that I cannot do it, for a minute ago I received a telegram that Cotton had been lynched. I understand with the authorities at Emporia that if I would withdraw the troops there would be no disturbance and everything would proceed in a peaceful manner. In twenty minutes from the time I withdrew the troops Cotton was lynched."

Sheriff Smith then asked the Governor for Cotton's dead body and the Governor said:

"I am out of my hands, as the body now belongs to the State Medical College. You will have to make arrangements with the authorities at Emporia to get it."

Sheriff Smith then told the Governor that he wanted the body to bring to this city to satisfy the people that it was that of Walter Cotton.

QUESTION OF REWARD.

As in all matters of great interest, this was no exception, and all manner of questions were asked Sheriff Smith, many of which he answered, and many he could not answer. The question of reward was presented, and in reply to a query as to what course he will pursue in reference thereto, he said:

"I won't pay a reward unless the body is turned over to me. I have no official knowledge that Cotton was ever caught."

The circulars sent broadcast over the country stated that I would pay the reward offered for the delivery of Walter Cotton to me in any jail in the United States. I made application for him yesterday," continued the Sheriff, "and Mr. Lee, the Sheriff of Greenville said positively and emphatically that he had Cotton, and that I could not get him."

It was after 3 o'clock considerably when the following telegram was received here in reply to the one sent to Sheriff Lee at 11:45 o'clock in the morning. It came just two hours and twenty-two minutes after Cotton had been hung and his body riddled with bullets:

Emporia, Va., March 24. 3:07 O'clock P. M. Sergeant Williamson Smith, Portsmouth, Va.: Cotton has just been lynched."

S. W. LEE, Sheriff. MOORE CLAIMS REWARD.

That there will be a dispute as to who is entitled to the reward there is no doubt, as it is understood that "Hurricane" Branch lays claim to it, while Moore and the man with whom he is interested in that to them very important matter.

Friday night Mayor Baird received a message by telegraph from Moore, asking him to hold the reward, as he would furnish proof that he captured Cotton.

To-day the Mayor received another wire message from Moore, as follows: To the Mayor of Portsmouth: I arrested Walter Cotton. Hold reward. Will furnish proof."

THE WHITE MAN O'GRADY.

escape of Cotton so soon after O'Grady's liberation is, the police think, the best evidence that he is the man who furnished the tools to Cotton with which he cut his way out of his liberty. Their belief is further strengthened by the position taken by them in fact that Cotton and O'Grady were equally implicated in the great crimes committed in and around Greenville county, and still further by the fact that they both met death at the hands of the same mob and on the same tree for the same crimes.

SHERIFF SMITH GOES THERE.

Last night Sheriff Smith, accompanied by Mr. George Mooney, the gentleman who was the foreman of the jury which convicted Walter Cotton, took the train for Emporia for the purpose of viewing the body of the man lynched there earlier in the day. The Sheriff wanted to be positive that the man was the Walter Cotton who escaped from this jail, and while he personally had no doubts about the man's identity, he wanted to be in a position to say to the people of Portsmouth of his own knowledge, that the Cotton of Emporia and the Cotton of Portsmouth were one and the same man.

The four lawyers who figured in this celebrated case are Messrs. W. H. Parker and Louis C. Phillips for the defense and Colonel K. R. Griffin and Chas. T. Bland for the prosecution.

SPECIAL BARGAINS TO-MORROW.

Many sales are advertised which interest the lady patrons of this paper, and all of them prove to be of great interest and value to the people—that is, speaking generally.

But none of them have been more successful than the great sales inaugurated at Brown's Bazaar, corner Middle and High streets. What is to be taught and the prices there, are all set out in their paper, which appears in this issue in bold relief, and it is beyond all efforts previously made in the direction of marking down prices.
